Welcome To The Super Fertility Summit Transcript

(Transcripts are generated by AI and may contain errors)

Welcome to the Super Fertility Summit

Hi there, Dr. Cleopatra Kamperveen, here with you. Thank you for joining me at The Super Fertility Summit. You should be so proud of yourself for taking this massive and meaningful step toward prioritizing your biological clock, your fertility, your pregnancies, and your super babies and your lineage to come.

I'm so proud of you. Experiencing fertility challenges. Whether it's difficulty getting pregnant in the first place or difficulty staying pregnant, or difficulty having a healthy baby and carrying that baby to term can be so confusing and isolating, especially when you're told that there's nothing that you can do about it that year.

You've run out of time. Your eggs are too old, you don't have that many eggs left, but most of the time this just isn't true. The vast majority of the time, up to 97% of the time, a person who's been diagnosed as infertile is not truly infertile or sterile.

Why Fertility Support Matters

My dedication to fertility stems from the profound lost that I experienced at birth, which is losing my mother at birth. It drove me to become a leading expert in the field of fertility and pregnancy and the intergenerational transmission of health, which is just a fancy scientific term for how health is transmitted from one generation to the next and the next, and so on.

I combine my personal experience and my extensive, almost three decade long professional expertise that spans multiple disciplines to offer integrative, evidence based solutions for overcoming fertility challenges, having your healthiest pregnancy, and having your super baby, which means getting to have the healthiest, happiest, brightest, most well adjusted and most neuro cognitively strong and most resilient to the stresses of the modern world.

Baby, that you can possibly have given your DNA and your epigenome, which is just your genetic expression and that of the other person providing DNA for your super babies and super grand babies and beyond.

My insights are shaped by extensive research, including almost $3 million in grant funded research from the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, the National Institute on Standards and Technology, and many more of the world's most prestigious funding bodies.

Dr. Kamperveenu2019s Background and Mission

I've also drawn from the experiences of thousands of women I've helped, and we now have super babies on six continents in over 45 countries to date. And now I'm here to help you.

And that is regardless of what your age is, because we've helped women between the ages of 23 and 48.5 years old to date, including a 47 year old mama who recently gave birth after cancer, giving her super baby girl naturally.

And she had a home water birth. And most people would say that neither of those things is possible for a 47 year old woman. We are also about to break our own record with our first 51 year old mama.

So I'm here to help you now, and that's why I'm hosting this super fertility summit. Get ready to receive brilliant education tools and strategies from 40 plus of the world's best experts, who have spent years helping women and couples with fertility, supporting families, and so much more.

You'll hear from Dr. Joel Warsh, a.k.a. Dr. Joel Gater of the popular parenting Instagram. He's a board certified pediatrician specializing in parenting, wellness, and integrative medicine.

And together, he and I will discuss how to nurture your health for your child's future. You'll hear from Dr.

What Youu2019ll Learn from Summit Experts

Elisa Song, who will discuss how to transform your pregnancy and your child's health with the power of the microbiome. She is the author of the new release Healthy Happy Kids, and you will not want to miss the information that she is sharing with you.

You'll hear from Dr. Mariza Snyder and together will explore the importance of targeted nutrition and essential supplements before, during, and after pregnancy.

And you'll also learn from Dr. Felice Gersh will uncover together the leading cause of female infertility, as well as innovative strategies for how to deal with it.

Those are just four of the more than 40 speakers and experts who will be accompanying you during your super fertility summit journey. You will be blown away by what you will learn from them.

The summit start date, July 23rd is almost upon us. So today I have a few recommendations so that you make the most out of your Super Fertility summit experience.

Add this event to your calendar. Make sure you don't miss the presentations. You're really looking forward to the most. Remember to download your Super Fertility Summit bonuses.

They are worth thousands of dollars just on their own, but during this summit they're yours for free just for registering. Go ahead and bookmark this page.

How to Prepare for the Summit

It will help you keep track of the summit timer as well as other important summit updates. But just in case, as soon as the summit starts, we'll email you daily reminders with a link to access each day's events with all of the incredible speakers.

Make sure that you find our emails if you're not seeing them. Check your spam, check your trash, and then add our email address to your email contacts to let your email server know that you really need to get these messages.

If for any reason you have a hard time finding these reminders or accessing your account, email us for help. Don't. Don't delay. Just email us for help.

At support@drtalks.com. Our diligent support team will be happy to assist you. If anyone you know who. If you know anyone else who could also benefit from the Super Fertility Summit, share the wealth.

Let them know about this event. Click the social media button to share this event forward. Any emails? Make sure to share this with the people you love the most who you know can benefit from it.

Let's spread the word so more people can work on their biological clock and benefit from all of the strategies and tools for their own fertility, but also for their babies and their families.

Closing Thanks and Call to Share

Together, we can raise awareness about the powerful steps that we can take to support our own fertility and other women who are seeking to conceive and bring home their super baby.

Thank you for registering and I will see you at the Super Fertility Summit. I cannot wait.