Who Adjusts The Adjuster? Remember how to SELF ALIGN! Transcript

(Transcripts are generated by AI and may contain errors)

Opening Chiropractic Challenge

Who adjusts the adjuster when the table's finally clear? Who aligns your spine when patience disappears?

Stress, Burnout, and Practice Struggles

Beyond Business Coaching and Technique

You trace the C1 rotation in every neck that walks through your door You know a stuck sacrum hides a story they ignore You may get adjusted, but look at your realities You practice struggling while your atlas says you're free Block cash flow, burnout, creep and stress that sits inside your chest That's dysregulation, docking, adjustments ain't the test Chasing patients, overworked, underpaid, the math don't lie You signed up to adjust the world, now you're just trying to get by Another business coach will sell you funnel scripts and ads Another chiropractic system, same principles, rebranded fads Another seminar on techniques, another supplement for your shelf But none of them can touch the subluxation in yourself The root ain't in your practice, it ain' in you technique It's calcified inside your fascia The vault where soul memories speak You align the spine so life force flows But if trauma's gum the channels up That force ain''t going where it goes What if you remembered how to awaken your lifeforce How to self-align and regulate your system Before you adjust another spine You learn thoughts, traumas and toxins Three T's that create nervous system drama Thoughts are attached to roots, suppressed emotions And memories from unhealed trauma Trauma calcifies and the fascia blocks the nighties Life force can't flow when the inner terrain turns toxic What if you could clear all three at once?

Thoughts, Trauma, and Toxins

Thought, trauma, toxins and end the chaos Everybody was designed with seven mechanisms To awaken your own life force without external isms Bet Cairo College didn't teach you that Did you know your endocannabinoid system is the master regulator?

Endocannabinoid System and Self-Regulation

Fascia, Ancestral Memory, and the Seminar Pitch

CB1, CB2, anandamide, the bliss you were born with, not a supplement later Bet Kairo college didn t teach that College didn't Never told thoughts, traumas, toxins from them You can't flee, you can hire by Your technique, your way to free The subluxation in your practice was never in the spine It's in you fascia holding stories that your hands were never trained to find Your body holds the sacred design Awaken life force from your holy bone up your spine Transmute the three T's with your body's activator Two and a half hour seminar Your nervous system as the patient You'll meet your seven life force activators The mechanisms your body was designed with to self-regulate No external hands required You understand why you're in the cannabinoid system Not a supplement, not a technique Is the master key to homeostasis and long-lived regulation You'll access the fascia vault where every trauma is stored Not just yours But those of your ancestors you inherited The three T's addressed simultaneously Not one at a time Not through someone else's hands on your spine Come with or without the plant You've been adjusting everyone else