Introduction to Dr. Joseph Mercola

The next person I want to talk to you guys about is again one of the tops of somebody I have the highest affinity for and I believe he stands on some of most strong ethical grounds I've ever seen an MD do.

And I wanna talk about Dr. Joseph Mercola. Now I think he's one that you probably have heard of because he was one the biggest influences on social media with his website and podcasts and all these other outlets to reach people.

and he was one of the, at least in my opinion, one the best activists for speaking out against the medical profession. And he is a current MD, he's been one for a long, long time.

But his website is loaded with studies and data and research regarding any issue, ailment, or topic of concern that you may have. He will give you the truths that are maybe not shared by mainstream media or otherwise the pharmaceutical company as a whole.

So Dr. Mercola for me is of the highest ethics due to his credentials, but also the nature in which he would handle his patients or work to help the public with better improving the quality of their health.

Check out Dr Mercolo's website. I think you will be highly impressed with the kind of information that is out there and you might find some similarities between the messages we've been sharing as well as he shares.